"Psychiatric Case Formulations" is a practical, hands-on manual that presents the nuts and bolts of writing concise case formulations from four different practice orientations: psychodynamic, biological, behavioural and biopsychosocial. Recognized specialists in each of these areas provide written formulation and commentary on a common case. These formulations on a common case provide the reader with a window into the heart of the formulation process, and the unique contributions of each perspective. The outcome is a multidimensional approach that is balanced and offers multiple avenues of potential intervention.
