Creating a nice quick, sharp tone. Doing this quickly more than once is called Chirping (like a bird). Slide or Bend: Slide your finger, slowly forward as you cover the hole, this causes a haunting bending sound. Slurring: Tongue the first note and keep the air flowing as you play additional notes, in a stream. Flip: Lift your finger as you are playing a note, and place it back down very fast. If you do it three or more times in a row its called a trill. Pop: Increase the air pressure and then block the air flow with your tongue, as you lift your finger off the hole. The tongue acts like a valve to shut off the air flow, creating a pop sound. Over blowing: On some flutes you can keep all holes closed and increase air pressure produces a note an octave higher. Flutter: Roll the tip of your tongue rapidly to make the sound of the Spanish "R". Vibrato: Create a gentle vibration in your throat, as you blow in the air, with emotion..
