Annapurna South Face: The Classic Account of Survival (Adrenaline) Sir Chris Bonington C.B.E.

In 1970, Chris Bonington and his now-legendary team of mountaineers were the first climbers to tackle a big wall at extreme altitude. Their target was the south face of Nepal's Annapurna: 12,000 feet of steep rock and ice leading to a 26,454-ft. summit. As serious armchair climbers will tell you, Annapurna South Face is better than all but a handful of equally gripping classics. One could also argue that all that has happened in the big mountains in the past 30 years has come out of this expedition and out of this book. Bonington and his team—most of whom subsequently died in the mountains—represented a kind of "greatest generation" of modern mountaineers. They pioneered a new, bolder approach to high altitude climbing, and this book is about how they hit the big time.

Richard Mason:

As a pupil exactly feel bored for you to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library or to make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's soul or real their hobby. They just do what the professor want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that studying is not important, boring and also can't see colorful images on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important in your case. As we know that on this era, many ways to get whatever we wish. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore
