Internationalisation of Higher Education and Global Mobility (Oxford Studies in Comparative Education)

Continuous and rapid developments in global higher education today more than ever before present new questions, greater challenges and vast new opportunities for institutions, policy makers, scholars and students alike. This book is a collection of studies and essays by many of the leading experts in international higher education, who share their analysis of current trends and the implications they see for present and future policy and practice.

The volume is organised into three sections that, first, address global, supranational concerns in internationalisation and mobility; second, focus on specific cases in Europe, the Middle East, the USA, Africa, Asia and Latin America; and, third, share profiles of individual institutions, practitioners and participants involved in uniquely shaping international education in their everyday practice. The intention of this book is to expand the scope of research in the field of comparative and international education, facilitate theory development, influence policy formation, and most of all inform anyone fascinated by the evolving and dynamic processes related to educational internationalisation and global mobility.

This book will be a valuable information source for scholars, policy makers and students intent on understanding the wide scope of factors that today are shaping the fluid and changing global higher education landscape.
