How I Turned a Punishing God Into One Madly in Love with Me: A Guide to Healing Your Inner Child Daisy B. Ba-ad

"Nothing in life is more traumatizing than having a Punishing God, judge every move you make from childhood to adulthood. Nothing in life is more purifying than finding out in later years that this Punishing God never existed at all! Nothing in life is more exhilarating than uncovering one's own divine powers to create waves of loving abundance by releasing unto the world a LOVING GOD madly in love with all." - Daisy Ba-ad ----- This book is a personal account on the damaging effects of the God-fearing concept introduced to the author as a child. It unravels the science behind the limits placed by man in God's capacity to love without boundaries. The personal system presented in the book is largely influenced by the work of cellular biologist and bestseller author, Dr. Bruce Lipton. In his book "Biology of Belief", Dr. Lipton shows evidence of how a person's perceptions in life could alter their entire being on the cellular levels. According to Lipton, "The cells of your body can either be in growth or protection. If your perceptions and beliefs are based enough on fear and protection, you can literally scare yourself to death in an instant. Imagine what you could do if enough of your perception and beliefs were based in love and growth!" The book offers an alternative way of achieving wellness and well-being by shifting from being a God-fearing individual to a God-loving one.
